

On This Day

Today as you're walking down the aisle
Stepping onto an untouched way.
Making a life changing decision
By what your about to say.

Marriage is a decision
A decision of unending love.
No matter what happens in the future
Your promise is to each other and above.

So don't take these vows lightly
Listen! Hear the words that are said
When God hears promises from his children
He expects them to follow where he's led.

To love, no matter what happens,
To forgive and to understand
To think the best and be caring
Always willing to reach out your hand.

To forgive when the other has stumbled
To love when one is sick or down.
To hang in there when the ocean is tossing
And sometimes listen, without making a sound.

To stick together when the world around you
Is tempting and saying bail out!
To cling tightly, holding forever
Even when there's a shadow of doubt.

The secret to this kind of existence
Is simple as simple can be.
You must ask God and our Savior
To center you life, don't you see?

You must seek God first and follow
Then love your spouse without end.
God will guide and instruct you
Always giving a hand to lend.
